Introduction

This guide covers a limited area that can, if you're willing, all be walked to. The boundaries are:

East:	The Railroad Tracks
West:	One block off Rockville Pike
North:	Viers Mill Road
South:	Old Georgetown Road

There are many places to eat, in the DC Area, outside of this area, but this seemed a reasonable area to cover. If you are looking for a specific cuisine, we probably have it within a fairly short drive. Just ask someone wearing a WSFA badge for a recommendation and directions. We may not all know every restaurant in the DC Area, but between all of us, we can probably point you in the right direction.

There is a shopping mall (White Flint) just a few blocks south of this area. Along with close to 100 retail stores, there is a food court, several sit down restaurants, and a Dave & Buster's (which is hard to put into a single category). The mall URL is: <http://www.shopwhiteflint.com/>

The Grocery Stores frequently sell ready to eat food and may even have places to sit and eat. Some have Salad Bars, Sushi Bars, and Starbuck's (or an equivalent).

Some restaurants have a single menu, for both lunch and dinner, and have menu sections that are "Burgers" and/or "Sandwiches". These sections are regarded as the 'Lunch Menu'. Other restaurants may have separate menus or different portions of the same dish (fairly common in Chinese Restaurants) for their Lunch Menu.

Some places have a ‘Dieter’s Menu’, but these can go under various names, and approaches. These refer to Portions, Sizes, Calories, Points and other similar things. These are grouped under “Healthy Diet” Pricing under “Special Diet”.

Some places have multiple cuisines. These are mostly listed under each cuisine (thus some places have multiple listings without having multiple locations. Other places have multiple names at a single address. These have been sorted by cuisine

The data, and menu copies, available for viewing at the Con’s Registration Desk, were gathered in July. Some of the data, such as pricing, and/or the existence of the places may have changed. Prices could go up/down, and places close while new ones may open. Unfortunately, this can’t be controlled.

Of necessity, price ranges are used (to simplify things), but all of the pricing, at any one place, will fall within that pricing. All of the price ranges are based on individual eaters, but some places have menus, or menu items, for multiple eaters. These were ignored for the purposes of this guide.

Some Relevant Local Laws & Customs

General Mass Transit: No eating, drinking, or smoking anything in a Metro Station, its grounds and/or parking lots, on a Metro Train, or on a Metrobus.

People have gotten fines of several hundred dollars for eating a single strawberry, or cookie, on the subway. It has been years since that was done, but do you really want to be the one who gets that ticket?

Subway Only: If you buy a paper farecard, with exact change for your trip, the exit gate will keep it.

Stand Right, Walk Left

This is an unwritten escalator custom that we tend to use for all DC Area escalators, but especially in Metro Stations (where it started). For ‘broken’ escalators, walk right as the other side may be in use by people coming the other way.

Montgomery County: No Smoking in public areas, including the vast majority of restaurants and bars. Restaurants are not supposed to use any trans-fats in cooking. Many will display signs indicating their compliance with this regulation, but it’s not 100% yet.

Sales Tax:	Jurisdiction:	Restaurant:	General:
	Maryland	6%	6%
	DC	10%	6%
	Virginia	5%	5%

(NOTE: Just what is taxable changes by jurisdiction.)

Area Codes:	Maryland	DC	Virginia
	301 / 240	202	703 / 571

You must always dial the Area Code for local numbers in the DC Area. From the hotel, all (or nearly all) of the above area codes are considered local. The older (more common) Area Code is listed first.
